Trudeau Won't Retaliate

By STUART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP) - Prime Minister Trudeau said Friday night that Canada will take all steps necessary to dampen any world move towards retaliation against the United States for imposing a 10-per-cent tax on imports into that country.

At the same time, in an address carried on both national television networks, he said Canada would continue to press the U.S. to exempt it from

The prime minister left no doubts of the serious effects of the tax being levied on Canada.

"If nothing is done to remove or prevent the impact of the surcharge, if it is given full effect, it will cause the loss of many thousands of Canadian jobs."

Mr. Trudeau spoke to the nation less than 24 hours after cutting short a European vacation to return home.

During that time he met with his cabinet to hear reports from Finance Minister E. J. Benson and Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin on their Washington trip aimed at get-

Bennett Takes Hard Line On Medicare Cost Level

By DOUG MacRAE

Premier Bennett suggested Friday that B.C. doctors take a 10 per cent cut in their schedule of medicare fees and have their rates frozen "until inflation is licked."

The premier made the suggestion in a busy day of firing potshots at the province's doctors, who are negotiating through the B.C. Medical Association for a new schedule of fees.

The cut was proposed after Bennett said he's believed the BCMA was seeking a rate increase of 20 per cent. This was denied today by BCMA executive director Dr. E. C. McCoy.

"We are not demanding anywhere near 20 per cent," McCoy said. "The associaton had simply pointed out to the government that doctors' rates had not been increased in three years, and that if they had gone up at the cost-of-living rate of 6.6 per cent per year the total would have been 20 per

If the doctors weren't asking 20 per cent, Bennett replied, then why was the figure mentioned at all?

"My opinion is that the rates should be 10 per cent less this year, instead of an increase," Bennett said.

"You can't deal with price indices and cost of living figures on top incomes like those of doctors. Twenty per cent on an income of $50,000 would be $10,000. How high is high?"

The premier's statements drew an angry response from Oak Bay MLA Dr. Scott Wallace, who boiled the Social Credit party this week.

Wallace quit after Bennett announced two orders-in-coun-cil aimed at prodding the BCMA into "serious" fee negoti-

One order empowered Health Minister Ralph Loffmark to dictate in which hospitals doctors may or may not practise. He said this was aimed at forcing doctors into doctor short areas of the province.

The second order empowered Provincial Secretary Wes-ley Black to license private medical laboratories, with the stated objective of forcing doctors to use public hospital labs at a lower cost to medicare.

On Tuesday, however, Bennett appeared to refute Loff-mark's explanation of the reason for the order governing which hospitals doctors could practise in. The premier said the order was part of the fight to keep medicare costs

Bennett indicated the government would not enforce the Loffmark order if doctors would pledge co-operation in keeping their rates down.

It was the principle that the health minister could dictate doctors' professional freedoms that led Wallace to quit, he

"I am even more distressed now to witness these rather devious explanations being attempted by the premier," Wal-lace said.

"I'm getting a little bitter. It is disappointing that when I am honestly trying to debate a point of principle, the premier can brand me as a representative of a special interest group interested only in money.

"That sort of comment lowers the level of this dehate to the typical political level of British Columbia. The premier is suggesting we sell our rights to practise in the hospital of our

Wallace said the premier is overlooking the fact that all costs involved in medicare have gone up. It is "unrealistic and unfair" to infer that the over-all rise in the cost of the program can be blamed solely on doctors' fees.

And Bennett's inference that the average B.C. doctor's income is $50,000 is "simply not true," Wallace said.

The province's 2,000 general practitioners probably average closer to $35,000 gross income, as does Wallace himself, who then pays one-third of that out for expenses.

The MLA noted that doctors had voluntarily agreed to not seek a rate increase last year, although they were entitled under their confract with the province to do so.

This concession was made in the face of rising overhead costs to the doctors themselves. Similarly, increases in the over-all cost of government medical care have been "inevitable, part of the world we live in," Wallace said.

Too Many Eggs in One Basket?

By CLAYTON SINCLAIR

Washington's imposition of a 10 per cent surcharge on a broad range of Canadian imports has strengthened the case of those who maintain that Canada has too many eggs in one basket.

The U:S. moves to stem the tide of imports illustrates the problems arising when one nation relies on another for 68 per cent of its trade, as Canada does with the U.S.

Two main campaigns to promote a more diversified trading pattern were getting under way when President Nixon made his moves last weekend.

When the Pinch Comes

Secretary Connally's reply that he would give "careful consid-'eration" to the Canadian request for exemption from the proposed 10 per cent surcharge on U.S. imports is the usual diplomatic way of saying "No, at least for the present". That interpretation is reinforced by the later comment of a treasury spokesman that "the interim answer was no, and there is nothing forthcoming that I know of." He added: The impression has been given that an announcement is pending. It is not.

Although the Canadian case is a good one, inasmuch as this country. has not participated in the recent trade restrictions and currency policies against which the United States is defending itself, there apparently will not be any early exceptions to the blanket ruling — provided Congress passes Mr. Nixon's legislation. Mr. Nixon is playing for big stakes. In the meantime Canada would do well to try to broaden its foreign markets and reduce its demonstrated dependency on the United

An early problem which may face us is the danger that an all-out trade war between Europe and the United States could result in our being brought even more closely into the United States trade orbit. Higher tariffs in Europe and Japan, designed to retaliate against the U.S., could have repercussions on our trade as well. The present crisis emphasizes what should long have been a cardinal point in Canada's trade policy - diversity on a global scale rather than a too-easy resort to our neighbor's market.

The published opinions of some of our Ottawa figures have revealed from waters far too deep for him interesting facets of their stature in the current crisis. Mr. Trudeau, addressing the nation yesterday, took for national self-congratulation.

UNITED STATES TREASURY a moderate stand in noting that the new U.S. policy is complex and may not show its full impact for some time. He looks to early international consultation for the purpose of achieving the "improved international trade and financial arrangements which the United States is seeking." In other words, easing of the serious American predicament will be the quickest way to remove the remedies that Washington will

> Most important, Mr. Trudeau made clear that it is not "in our interest to retaliate and set in motion the destructive spiral of an international trade war. Everyone would be a loser in those circumstances.'

This is a far cry from the claptrap that Conservative Leader Stanfield is putting forth, declaring that Mr. Trudeau ought to rush to Washington for an audience with President Nixon, because "the people of Canada want action . . . " The ministerial delegation to Washington was 'not good enough," he says.

For his part, NDP Leader Lewis sees Mr. Trudeau's reasonable attitude as "mealy-mouthed" and "softpedalling". He repeated his advice that Canada should "retaliate" (without saying how), and even get the other nations to gang up on the United States.

An international crisis, like a domestic one, quickly divides the statesmen from the politicians, the brains from the hare-brains. Canada is fortunate that Mr. Stanfield, wellmeaning but trapped in his befuddled political counter-punching, is not at the Ottawa helm today. While the virtual certainty that Mr. Lewis — with his obsessive votebegging approach to every national issue, and his typical fist waving will never get a hand on the country's tiller should be a matter

No Expansion of Sea Rescue

DEFENCE MINISTER MACdonald's statement, apparently rejecting expansion of air-sea rescue services by the armed forces, dampens the spirits of Pacific Coast residents who had hoped the naval recated helicopters would be available

Mr. Macdonald is painfully blunt when he asks: "What can we do top boat in a heavy sea?" The answer, whether we like it or not, is that we have to try to help him, just as the forces try to help the person, dence, who encounters trouble in an airplane accident.

But the point apparently overlooked by the minister is that a substantial number of people who get into difficulties in treacherous waters around this coast are not fools in cartop boats. Some of them are veteran fishermen and expertenced operators of small_craft.

Admittedly, with a population explosion of sea-going sources would come more fully into tionists, too many. It is un-derstood that Canada offered sympathy but no money in the talks at Brussels when the U.S., Germany and Italy Germany and Italy agreed to help Britain out.

Canada's Position

Nevertheless, a Whitehall source said optimistically, "Canada's heart is in the right place even if its hand isn't in its pocket." Canada's position that the Mediterranean is at the other end of the alli-ance well away from Canada's sphere of military involvement is understood

A Simple Explanation of What Mr. Nixon Did to the Dollar and Why He Did It

President Richard Nixon's announcement that the United States will no longer exchange dollars for gold took the world by surprise. Few people had expected the U.S. to take any drastic action to change the dollar situation before the International Monetary Fund (IMF) meeting at the end of September

But the surprise was caused by the uddenness of the decision rather than by the decision itself. For it had been obious for a long time that the U.S. would have to do something radical about the iollar's relationship with gold, and it has been equally obvious that there were really only two alternatives open to it.

Roots of the Crisis

The roots of the present crisis go ok to the mid-1950s when the U.S. ot gan to run a balance of payments defi-Because most countries in the world So bre prepared to hold U.S. dollars as he art of their reserves, to settle their inernational transactions, the U.S. was ible to give the countries with which it was in deficit dollars to fiold. If the coun tries did not like holding dollars the U.S.

could swap them for gold from its vast reserves at $35 an ounce

But with time the U.S. deficit got worse, and more and more countries The deficit got worse for a number of of U.S. military spending abroad and the steady deterioration in the U.S. balance of trade. For the United States had long that is, essentially an excess of long investment in the United States - by selling more than it bought.

What made the holders of dollars re stless was the sight of the steady erosion of America's gold reserves. Between the devaluation of sterling in November 196 and March 1968, there was widespread speculation that the U.S. was about to raise the dollar price of gold from $35 an ounce. The result was a rush to swap

In March 1968, after a meeting of the main Western industrial countries in Washington, a new arrangement was made which can be seen, in retrospect, he the first step towards Mr. Nixon's

By FRANCES CAIRNCROSS London Observer News Service

The gold market was split into two Private companies and individuals could no longer rely upon swapping their dol lars for gold at $35 an ounce. If they free market, where the price quickly rose above $40 an ounce. Only Governments could still convert their dollars for gold from the American reserves at the official price of $35 an ounce. -

Relevance of Gold

Now this row over the gold price may sound irrevelant to the current crisis. But in fact it is very closely linked to it. For the dollar has now become the standard against which other currencies quote their exchange rates. The value of the dollar is, in theory, tied to gold: 35 U.S. dollars will buy or rather would buy, until last weekend an ounce of fine gold. But in fact the value of the dollar is tied only to its purchasing power in the United States. If a dollar would once buy five hamburgers and today will buy only four, it has depre-ciated, and so have all the other currencies which quote their exchange rates in terms of dollars.

It has been clear for some time that the dollar needs to be devalued. One of the main reasons why the U.S. balance of paryments has deteriorated is that costs and prices in America have got out of line with those in the rest of the world. Hamburgers in America are more expensive, in dollar terms, than those in London's King's Road.

But because of the peculiar rela-tionship of the dollar to the world's monetary system there are only two ways to 'devalue' the dollar. One is to induce the major industrial countries of the world to revalue their currencles against the dollar. And the other is to raise the other major gainers would have been the world's two main gold producers, the Soviet Union and South Africa the countries to which America wants to give a free hand-out.

With the official dollar price of gold raised to, say, $40 an ounce, the other countries of the world would have been faced with a choice. Either they could have kept the amount of dollars that their currency would buy unchanged, by keeping their dollar exchange rate the which would mean devaluing the amount of gold their currency would cally revalue their exchange rate against

Demonetize Gold

But the U.S. has not chosen this alternative. The Nixon Administration clearly believes that the monetary role of gold should disappear as soon as possible, and that it should become one more useful industrial metal, as silver has become. So the Nixon Administration has gone for the other alternative, of their currencies in terms of the dollar Again, the rest of the world has a choice. A country could try to maintain its present exchange-rate with the dollar and ignore the fact that its dollars could no longer be swapped for gold. This is what Japan has been trying to do, and it should be clear by now what happens to the country that goes for this allernative. Speculators doubt its chances of succeeding and buy its currency hand over fist. in the hope that it will be forced to revalue. Ultimately sheer speculative pressure may drive the country that ch this alternative to give up and revalue against the dollar.

But the second alternative is the one which most countries are likely to ac cept. It is to accept that dollars no longer buy gold, and to revalue or float against the dollar straight away. The U.S. has been trying to talk the rest the world into doing this for a good two years; but shock tactics are better than all the talk in the world: "In this game, as Paul Volcker, the Under-Secretary of the United States Treasury, said in London on Monday night, "it takes two to CALGARY (CP) — Sulphur produced from a new natural gas processing plant near. Ram River could be stock-piled for as many as 30 years taine Co. of Canada Ltd.

Production manager L. C. Cameron told a hearing of the Energy Resources Conservation Board that soft market conditions would force the stockpiling.

The plant is currently under construction with a planned capacity of 220 million cubic feet of patural gas daily but Aquitaine has applied to increase this to 382 million cubic feet.

LARGEST

If the increase is approved, the plant would be the largest sulphur producer in Alberta with a daily output of 4,110 long tons. Other outputs would be 225 million cubic feet of residue gas and 3,510 barrels of restores plus

The company has applied for permission to initially discharge 336 long tons of sulphur dioxide into the atmo-sphere daily with the amount dropping to 168 long tons after Dec. 31, 1973.

Cameron said the surplus sulphur would be stored in enormous blocks "until the unknowns of sulphur marketing are resolved.'

The plant is to be the second in the world using the "Sulfreen" process to treat tall gases and remove 98 per cent of the sulphur. The other plant is operated by Aquitaine's parent company in taine's parent company

Plant Opposed A New Breed of Specialists Born

Kates, Peat, Marwick and Co. The last two decades have witnessed a phenomenal growth in the complexity of management. As a result management's daily demands for information in planning and controlling operations have increased accordingly. New skills have been devel-oped within industry to meet the increase in information needs and today we have a new breed of specialists whose sole concern is that of providing the decision making managers with the data they so critically need.

These specialists identify themselves by such titles an information system analysts, managers of information sys-tems, data processing manag-ers and so on.

While their titles vary, they all share a common frame of reference in that they are all involved in the design or operation of management information systems.

The disturbing fact is that there is a widespread lack of understanding on the part of both information specialists and operating management as to what constitutes an effective system Congentury tive system. Consequently, the optimum value of man-agement information systems is all too frequently not rea-

It is widely acknowledged that reports received too late to affect decisions are of littlevalue. Consequently, much attention and effort are focused on producing reports within defined deadlines.

There is little question that this is an important factor in assessing usefulness. When a report arrives on the manager's desk on time, however, this is only a starting point; what the report contains and how it is presented determine its true effectiveness. CONTENT

The content of individual reports must be evaluated on the following criteria: the degree of detail provided; the pertinence and completeness of the information; and its degree of accuracy.

Does all the information re-

Does all the information reported really have an effect on decisions?

If not, it simply clutters the report and absorbs management time that could be better spent on other problems. Similarly, reports are often not sufficiently expansive. Consequently, two or more separate reports must be combined before a complete review can be made.

An organization that forces individuals to rely on informal information systems, or to make decisions without ade-

Clarity. Reports must be presented in a format conductive to rapid visual assimilation and interpretation. Cluttered reports require an inordinate effort to review.

• Emphasis on key information. Whenever possible, reports should be designed so as to draw management's attention to the more sig-nificant contents. One method of doing this is to utilize an "exception reporting" system that focuses attention on resuits achieved above or below an anticipated level of per-formance. In this way, man-agement is immediately aware of areas requiring cor-rective action, or further analysis to determine the rea-sons for superior results.

 Organization. Ideally, a package of reports should be organized so that the summaorganized so that the summa-ry information is encountered first. This allows the report user to select and research the areas of greatest concern to him in the shortest time

Gross revenue totalled $50 million against $37.2 million in the first half of 1970. Expenses increased to $45.9 million from $39.3 million.

The basic reasoning behind The basic reasoning behind this principle of tax law is that since there are an infinite number of possible situations, the income tax law could be endless if it attempted to progide rules for each potential transaction. Instead the law is specific rather than general.

It will say that if one makes such and such a transaction, he will be taxed but if he does not come within the letter, not the spirit, of the law he will

For example, if a man owns a business and his wife works for him and earns a salary, her remuneration is not de-ductible because the Income Tax Act specifically prohibits. Tax Act, specifically prohibits this kind of deduction. Howevthis kind of deduction. However, the man can accomplish the same result—and obtain the tax benefit of deducting her salary by incorporating his business and having the corporation pay her salary. Now it is deductible.

Each year there are more disgruntled taxpayers who have fallen into one or an-other kind of tax trap. They have done something that makes them taxable, which if done another way would have left them tax-free. Usually the courts are powerless to assist

The irony is that had Smith borrowed the money himself from the suppliers and then lent it to the company he would have saved the extra tax and the same business would have been achieved.

Which brings one back to the original proposition: the form of a transaction, and not its effect, determies the tax result.

Curious reality — fortuitous listeners assume a song's a happy one because the melody and performance are cheerful. Fact is, this contrast is part of the appeal and strength of not a few pop singers. It's not new!

Puff, The Magic Dragon, an early Peter, Paul and Mary hit, in many circles is still accepted as a straightforward "kid's tune" with a happy beat far removed from "grass."

Many examples exist. Fire and Rain, James Taylor's smash, rocks gently with a breezy delivery pitted against the bleak feelings he sings about. It was written during a second self-imposed incarceration in a mental institution. He explained he wrote this song because he came down to breakfast one morning to discover that a female friend had committed suicide.

Over-eager fans garnished he song with rumors of a love affair between James and the girl. Some spoke softly that she killed herself out of love for him. That he never mentioned her suicide specifically in his lyrics wound the rumor mill to

The story doesn't end here! Producers are reported to be pressing for the film rights to this tragic love story. But James stubbornly refuses. His terse explanation is that he was simply singing of the untimely death of a triend. A dollar-loaded piece of logic it was, in that Fire and Rain was

The lyrics go on to reveal James's quest for personal religious salvation and love while he is faced with chaos and general weakness. Without a doubt, religion plays an important part in James's life and music. He taught himself to play the mitter and the property hypers. the guitar as a pre-teener by picking out favorite hymns

His latest single, You've Got A Friend is at the top this week on the CJVI Sound Scoreboard. Not too far removed from Sunny Skies and Hey Mister, That's Me Up On The Jukebox in the flashback file.

For my money, James Taylor heads the list of musician-performers that includes Elton John, Joni Mitchell and Neil Young. The most innovative of these solo performers. Clear-ly, a breath of fresh air from the over-produced hard rock singers who dominated, for too long, popular music just a few

James is gentle. That Sweet Bahy James label is most apt. His, Oh Susannah was something approaching a kind of jazz cadence mixed with a mellow country mood. Taylor concerts continue to self out two or three months in advance. They are hig league concerts! It is not unusual to see him booked to play the so-called Great Performer series along with such comparative heavyweights as opera star. Beverly Sills and classical pianist Leonard Pennario.

In his 24th year, this young Bostonian has lived a long battle with hard drugs, discovered by the Beatles, successful records, a starring role in Two Lane Blacktop Taylor, cowboy jesus, superstar of the seventies.

Updated Shakespeare Not Sacrilege

From points north, south, east and west, Shakespearean iambics have been sounding the "echoing air" in the annual crop of summer festivals devoted to the works of Will.

One of the endless fascina-tions of Shakespearean pro-duction are the endless controversies that arise over the validity of directors' and actors' interpretations.

In recent years the con-troversies have become more intense and more interesting as modern ideas and tastes have begun to infiltrate.

There are the deeply entrenched traditionalists who argue for hours in an attempt to_isolate Shakespeare's true intentions regarding Hotspur or Hamlet, Iago, Shylock or (The plays are Mac-beth, Much Ado About Nothing, Midsummer Night's Dream, Henry IV part I, and, in addition, Williams' Glass Menagerie and Bolt's Man For All Seasons.) This festival grew out of a single July 4 production in 1935. Curious reality — fortuitous listeners assume a song's a happy one because the melody and performance are cheerful. Fact is, this contrast is part of the appeal and strength of not a few pop singers. It's not new!

Puff, The Magic Dragon, an early Peter, Paul and Mary iit, in many circles is still accepted as a straightforward kid's tune" with a happy beat far removed from "grass."

Many examples exist. Fire and Rain, James Taylor's smash, rocks gently with a breezy delivery pitted against the bleak feelings he sings about. It was written during a second self-imposed incarceration in a mental institution. He explained he wrote this song because he came down to breakfast one morning to discover that a female friend had committed suicide.

Over-eager fans garnished the song with rumors of a love affair between James and the girl. Some spoke softly that she killed ferself out of love for him. That he never mentioned her suicide specifically in his lyrics wound the rumor mill to

The story doesn't end here! Producers are reported to be pressing for the film rights to this tragic love story. But James stubbornly refuses. His terse explanation is that he was simply singing of the untimely death of a friend. A dollar-loaded piece of logic it was, in that Fire and Rain was

The lyrics go on to reveal James's quest for personal religious salvation and love while he is faced with chaos and general weakness. Without a doubt, religion plays an important part in James's life and music. He taught himself to play the guitar as a pre-teener by picking out favorite hymns.

His latest single, You've Got A Friend is at the top this week on the CJVI Sound Scoreboard. Not too far removed from Sunny Skies and Hey Mister, That's Me Up On The Jukebox in the flashback file.

For my money, James Taylor heads the list of musician-performers that includes Elton John, Joni Mitchell and Neil Young. The most innovative of these solo performers. Clear-ly, a breath of fresh air from the over-produced hard rock singers who dominated, for too long, popular music just a few

James is gentle. That Sweet Baby James label is most apt. His, Oh Susannah was something approaching a kind of jazz cadence mixed with a mellow country mood. Taylor concerts continue to sell out two or three months in advance They are big league concerts! It is not unusual to see him booked to play the so-called Great Performer series along such comparative heavyweights as opera star Beverly Sills and classical pianist Leonard Pennario

In his 24th year, this young Bostonian has lived a long life. It years of being in the hopper with an unproven musical style, two self commitments to mental institutions, winner in a battle with hard drugs, discovered by the Beatles, successful records, a starring role in Two Lane Blacktop Taylor, cowboy jesus, superstar of the seventies.

Updated Shakespeare Not Sacrilege

From points north, south, east and west, Shakespearean lambics have been sounding the "echoing air" in the annual crop of summer festivals devoted to the works of Will.

One of the endless fascinatroversies that arise over the validity of directors' and actors' interpretations.

In recent years the con-troversies have become more intense and more interesting as modern ideas and tastes have begun to infiltrate.

There are the deeply entrenched traditionalists who argue for hours in an attempt to isolate Shakespeare's true intentions regarding Hotspur or Hamlet, Iago, Shylock or Notes from a soiled shirt cuff, or did you know that Victoria is about to lose one of it's top athletes? Only temporarily, it is hoped.

Penny May, silver and bronze medal winner in the PanAm Games in Colombia, plans to attend school in Vancouver this fall. Penny is shooting for the Olympics in Munich next summer and feels that her best chance rests with a full training program under her coach Lionel Pugh, rather than commuting, as she has done in the past.

Then there is the third-hand golf story coming from the recent B.C. Open in Vancouver. It seems that some time ago when Moe Norman, "Mr. Unpredictable" of Canada's golf circuit, had completed negotiations for some property he was buying in Ontario he completely shocked the real estate agent by his method of payment.

When the price was agreed upon, the real estate man said "Now, how would you like to pay for it — by cheque?"
Norman answered, "I'll pay cash." With that he reached into his pocket and peeled off $25,000 in bills. There is the golf note, too, that Bob Wylie shot a 65 at Royal Colwood in the 1969 lefty-righty tournament and that is the true course note. 60. that Bob Wylle shot a bo at Hoyal Colwood in the 1969 lefty-righty tournament and that is the true course record ... More significant, perhaps, is the fact that, Wylle, at one time or another, has held course records at eight courses in Western Canada ... It is rumored, too, that pro-Bill Court of Colwood is a fisherman of note ... last week, he and partner boated five, largest 18 lbs. 6 ozs ...

The Western Canada Soccer League has been no great success this year simply because of a lack of teams, a rather necessary commodity. Still, the calibre of the game as produced by the Royals, has been excellent. And even if they produced by the Royals, has been excellent. And even if they have done everything asked, it still is difficult to sell a non-league to the fans, which is just what the WCSL has been for most of the summer. Which brings up another interesting situation. It concerns the Pacific Coast Soccer League, the streamlined 1971 version, and also the planned pseudo professional league for next spring. The pro circuit, which will have the Royals, Columbus, Spartans, etc., and seemingly all the established stars, must have these players under contract. Right? Now the ugly question is what happens to players who compete in a tournament planned by the new pro circuit this fall? Are they forever bound to the new league, or can they fall? Are they forever bound to the new league, or can they play in the PCSL in the fall? Sounds like a power play to grab off the stars, doesn't it? And if true, where does that leave the Coast League? Perhaps the PCSL can answer, or leave the Coast League: Perhaps the perhaps it can.t.

And if the Canadian men's basketball leam #idn't do that well in the Pan-Am Games, it was their own fault. Authority for that statement is George Siborne, well-known Canadian and international referee. George said that the Canadian club "knew what to expect, and had been warned before the Games. They just didn't adjust," he added. "I think they could have done much better."

Meanwhile, Ed Hall is coming along interly in the dorse Hospital following his recent stroke ... Red Lawson is ditto after an operation ... and trainer Fred Dyson has realized a profit of $2,000 from claiming and losing Lockset, the surprising darling of Ex-Park race fans this year: Lockset, who runs in the PNE 'Cap today, has set a modern-day Ex-Park record with nine victories this year, seven of them in a row. Sure, there have been some big surprises in horse racing, some of which may have raised an eyebrow or two, but in the good old days, they had what was almost a sure-fire method of preventing repeat performances. Art Cottrell, who has made a life study of the sport, and has a collection of programs from many of the most famous tracks in the country, recalls the method once used to handle such questionable tactics: "When a horse which had finished last, or nearly last, in his previous races, suddenly popped up and won by three or four, and at good odds, and for no apparent reason, track officials had a stock move: They would call in the owner and ask him to remove his horse and himself from the premises, as soon as possible, preferably by midnight; and please don't return, ever!"

inally, there has to be that delightfully frank quote of track star Jenny Meldrum commenting on conditions in general at Cali, site of the Pan-Am Games: "If you didn't have in a while, but hardly ever when Vida Blue pitches. It was one of those once-ina-blue-moon times Friday

"The game is history, there'll be lots more," said the star southpaw after losing only his fifth game of the year -a 1.0 heart-breaker to Boston Red Sox.

The loss can be excusable for Blue, who has never been defeated more than once a month this year as he stormed upon the scene from a baseball nobody.

ROOF FALLS IN

Blue allowed only two hits before giving up a leadoff sin-gle to Billy Conigliaro in the eighth. Then the roof fell in as Duane Josephson sacrificed and reached first base on an error. Pitcher Gary Peters then sacrificed both runners along and Doug Griffin singled in the winning run.

Jim Spencer slugged a three-run homer and Rudy May pitched a five-hitter, leading California over New York. May was helped out by four double plays and the Yankees contributed to their own downfall with three own downfall with three

Jill Smith Takes Title In Island Junior Meet

Jill Smith of Uplands shot a 95 Friday at Gorge Vale Golf pionship.

Tied for the runner-up spot in the 18-hole medal contest were Sue Metcalfe of Victoria Golf Club and Sydney Thomson of Royal Colwood with scores of 101.

The Marilyn Palmer team trophy was won by the Van-couver foursome of Val White, Kathy Brambell, Karen Hunt-er and Kathy Hobkirk who had a net total of 3176 They defeat-ed by three strokes the Island team of Misses Smith, Thom-son, Metcaife and Little and Marion Main of Eplands. The best four scores counted team totals.

Jay Johnstone ripped a pair of home runs, Bill Melton de livered a two-run shot and Mike Andrews slammed a bases-empty -homer in Chicago's triumph over Cleveland. Chicago's Tom Bradley cattered six hits before Vada Piñson tagged him for a homer in the eighth for the Indians' only run. Leo Cardenas' two-out, three-run homer keyed a fiverun eighth inning that carried Bradshaw Advances

"The course played a little tougher and it was the wind that made it that way," said Homenuik who had a sizzling five-under-par 64 on the par-70, 6,311-yard Saskatoon Golf and Country Club course Thursday.

"I'm happy that I'm play ing consistent golf," said Homenuk, a regular on the United States PGA tour and who has pocketed, about $19,000 this year.

CAUTIOUS APPROACH

"I take a cautious approach on the greens at all times. Some guys take those little two and three-foot putts for granted—not me. They're the ones that make you money.

Homenuik, not as sharp and cautious as Thursday when he collected seven birdies, had only two birdies in the second round but still went one under par on each of the front and back-nines.

TIED FOR SECOND

In second place were Gary Pitchford, formerly of Toron-to who plays out of Lucayan, the Bahamas, and Dick Munn tempt to win a world bicycle racing crown, Tom Morris left Victoria early Thursday en route to the 1971 world road championship meet at Men-drisio, Switzerland, next weekend.

It will be the third successive appearance in the world event for Morris, who finished 32nd last year after crashing in 1900.

Second in this year's Canadian championship race to Vancouver's Max Grace, the 25-year-old star of Victoria Wheelers finished 12th overall and was the leading Canadian in the road event at last summer's Commonwealth Games at Edinburgh.

With Morris and Grace on the road-racing team are Halik Konig, Calgary, Gino Cadorin, Guelph, and Marc Blouin, Montreal.

Representing Canada in the world track championships at Varese, Italy, Aug. 25-Sept. 4, will be Toronto's Jocelyn Lo-vell, gold-medal winner this month at the Pan-American Games; Barry Harvey, Mon-treal; Chris Hooker, Calgary; Kevin Sirois, Edmonton, and Roy Fondse, Winnipeg.

8:30 p.m., Channel 4. Much has been reported of the excessive use of narcotics among GIs in Vietnam. The ABC news department has put together a penetrating documentary on the problem and the efforts to help the GIs

SATURDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES. 8:30 p.m., Channel 5. "The Night of the Iguana." Much more should have been expected from a cast headed by Richard Burton, Ava Gardner and Deborah Kerr, even though this Tennessee Williams stage original was never considered among his stellar efforts. How-ever, it remains a limp story in its movie adaptation. Burton portrays a defrocked min-ister who goes to Mexico and becomes a tourist guide. On one tour, a teen-age girl (Sue Lyons) sets her sights on the guide, who brings his party to a hotel operated by an old friend (Ava Gardner). Miss Kerr is another guest at the hotel, who also develops an -attachment to Burton attachment to Burton.

"What do you have to do to get on this tour?"

"Just be here every night for the next nine nights, and on the 10th night, get on the plane with us."

That was Pamela Poland's invitation from Leon Russel to join one of the most incredible rock 'n' roll barnstormers in history, Joe Cocker, Mad Dogs and Englishmen, from the movie of the same name.

the movie of the same name.

She had been on a two-day visit to Los Angeles last March from her home in Mill Valley, Calif., when a girl friend told her "there was going to be a jam at the A and M sound stage with Joe Cocker and Leon Russel and they were trying to find some singers and but together some sort of a band."

"Like Leon had just called

"Like Leon had just called up a bunch of his friends and so Rita (Coolidge) was there and Jim Gordon, Joe, Carl R adle, Dave Mason and Donna Washburn, and, oh, Don Preston, the cat who played second guitar.

"It sounded really nebulous to me, you know, I like thing: that are just slightly more or-ganized, I just was really con-fused.

'I thought I'd take it a day at a time. I didn't sing the first night, but the next night I came back and Leon came up to me during a break and said: 'Next time we get up and play, I want you to get up there and sing."

Pamela did about an hour and a half and Leon came over "first thing and said:

Pamela would lose her voice every three days on the tour. She gave it a lot of visual energy and helped create the kind of circus atmosphere Leon envisaged when he gathered together the 40-odd singers, musicians, children, pets and hangers on that was Cocker Power.

"Some of the other people who sang in the choir just stood there like stone ghosts or something," she said.

"What they sang was right-eous, but Leon wanted to put on a real circus show, a three-ringer, and he did."

If the movie did anything, it put the rock 'n' roll star in a more sympathetic light—when Cocker was on stage, he was dynamite; the rest of the time, he looked lost and out of touch with what was happen-

"He's really a sincere, lay-back groovy cat, who is not ... to say that he is not articulate is the understatement of the decade, I mean he just can't say anything, all he can do is sing," said Pamela.

"He can receive, but he doesn't really seem to care about receiving all that much from the environment. He's just a singer and he likes to go to the pubs, have some

"And he said: 'I'd really like not to be taking drugs too, but I have no will, I have no will at all. Wherever I turn, some's putting a joint in my mouth or some pill on my tongue. . . I can't turn it down. That's what I'd like, just to live naturally, enjoying life?

"And I just felt for him so strongly when he said that." The movie stuck with the tinsel imagery and forgot about some truths.

Greenhouse Vegetables for Winter Depend on Soil

WORK FOR WEEK

A greenhouse, glass cracked, slugging roof, forlorn and weed filled, has inspried many a young gardener to attempt growing winter vegetables.

Since vegetables can be grown in a coldframe, why not in an unheated green-house?

The reasoning is sound. The unheated greenhouse is nothing more or less than an over-grown coldframe. Because of its size, it encloses many more cubic feet of air, which in turn means more equitable temperatures than possible in a smaller structure.

However, many of these inspired indoor vegetable gar-dens were far from success-ful. Some were a complete tailure and were given up in entails planning, some labor, constant attention, and some expenditure in eash. The results should justify the outlay and return a margin of profit, otherwise time and effort have been wasted.

Since vegetables, and all plants for that matter, are directly or indirectly built from soil, just as a brick wall is built from bricks, it is necessary to start with good soil. The better the soil the better the results a loss of $8.5 million. That means that every man, woman and child in the country who shopped in those stores subsidized the shoplitier to the tune of 40 cents. Multiply the figure by the number of stores in which they shop—from the corner candy store to the supermarket—and the average family probably spent $20 to $40 to Protecting the shopkeeper's interests in the running battle with store thieves is a miniscience itself within the framework of mass retailing.

Some Victoria-area stores framework of mass retailing.
Some Victoria-area stores treat the matter more seriously than others. Two major retailers, for example, have as their total anti-shophifting forces one female detective each. Their apprehensions and convictions are consequently few in number.
Most store security personnel are understandably reluctant to be named, photographed or even drawn into Greene said Sandringham's owners have refused to negotiate throughout the 16-month-old strike by 28 nurses' aides who are seeking a first contract.

"This refusal to negotiate constitutes an offence under the law, but Chabot does nothing but wring his hands in despair."

Greene said.

"Bargaining units like that at Sandringham need the full protection of the law. If the government would say to owner Russell Shepherd, 'Sit down and bargain or we'll cancel your licence,' he would soon be brought to heel."

"Rieptomaniacs are the rich thieves, the poor people are just plain thieves," Smith says. "In this business you've got to think with your flead, not your heart."

So more than half the shop-lifters apprehended by Smith and his staff wind up as part of the constant, sorry parade of shoplifters through provincial court, where they can expect to pay a fine of $250 — or under some circumstances, like transiency or repeat of-fences, wind up in jail for a

The shoplifter is not, in-

The shoplifter is not, in-deed, a kleptomaniac. "One particularly sad example is the teen-ager who steats, or gets into some other scrape, as a means of drawing attention."

"There is no doubt that theft must be considered serious in any form in the eyes of the law.

"But the real cause of the act can be of much greater importance, as in the instance of a teen-aged boy who steals women's undergarments and act can be of much greater importance, as in the instance of a teen-aged boy who steals womea's undergarments and in that way achieves sexual gratification."

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow in my late sixtles. I've been going with a very fine widower for some time. We enjoy each other's company a great deal, and he has never been anything but a perfect gentieman in all the time I've known him.

He recently gave me a washing machine as a gift. I hesitated at first, but later I accepted it Do you think that was an

Do you think that was an appropriate gift from a gentleman? — Second Thoughts.

DEAR SECOND: It was an appropriate gift from a gentleman who would like to get his laundly into your machine.

DEAR ABBY: Well, DEAR ABBY Well, its slave labor season for Mr. and Mrs. Summer Cottage Owners, but don't let it get you down. Toward the end of the week, allow your grocer-ies to run low. When the free-loaders arrive, greet them loaders arrive, greet them warmly, but apologetically, ('We're sorry, we didn't know you were coming, but if Mr. Freeloader will drive 20 miles back to town and pick up a few items, we can all-have a good time anyway.")

Don't stop at groceries. Have cigarets, liquor and beer on your list. If the free-loaders actually get the list filled for you, when they return with the stuff, don't offer to resimilar the stuff, don't offer to resimilar them. to reimburse them. After all, it's your cottage, fuel, beach, boat, etc., and you didn't invite them.

And don't wait on anybody.

If they head for the beach or boat, tell them everyone pitches in with cooking and cleaning, and keep them busy. When the moon comes over the mountain and the freeloaders go home, they'll know they've had it, and I'll bet they don't come back unless they're invited. — Katy Did-

Stewardesses' Main Job?

To Keep Passengers Safe

She reads evacuation information to passengers on take-off. enforces safety measures in the cabin (like making sure seatbacks are upright and trays folded up during landing and take off).

WASHINGTON (WP)
The blue and white Eastern Airlines DC3 jetliner was sitting on the apron at Washington National Airport recently when two windows over a wing abruptly opened and people came swarming out, sliding down the trailing edge

London in my book. There are capital art three charm, romanticism, and greatness.

The instant appeal of its inner city breeds at first a suspicion that all is for show, that you will find no gingerbread beneath the gilt—and title niggardly proofs of such a theory manifest themselves from time to time.

This is not entirely a question of beautiful buildings extravagantly indulged at every turn, nor even one of generous parks and gardens or museums endowed with such rartites as the Albertina's massive collection of Durer drawings.

All these, of course, contribute as do the famous Vietnese coffee houses where you can sip your melange or a dozen other varieties of coffee), supplementing it for hours with glasses of water while you read through a whole range of newspapers and magazines supplied in a dozen languages by a thoughtful management. Here, perhaps, begins the nostalgia which is Vienna's trademark. Not a sad or

From Poor Excuses to Predictability

How much simplicity can the process of thinking take on and still remain humanly rel-evant? There is a minimal art tradition on the cultural books. that would reduce statements of the artist to whispers, sin-gle syllable grunts, and formal courtesy bows.

Saying nothing and yet constantly manufacturing works of art is a difficult posture to maintain. Inevitably the artist's statement becomes his about deducation. absurd education.

Studying the decision mak-ing of the artist as he pro-gresses from one work to the next shows that his career, if

Chris Jackh who exhibits at the Print Gallery makes shaped canvases. The materi-al 'is stretched, over odd-shaped frames to create taut tent forms. In a few pieces, shapes are broken up by natshapes are broken up by pat-terned paint calculated to make the eye jump over hard edge hurdles; without the eyelid closing, the eye is forced to blink as it passes from one color area to the next. The surface seems to ripple as the field of Chris Jackh; it is an empty pursuit.

He would invent new forms within the stretched canvas medium. A work entitled impressions of B.C. lies partly on the floor, spans the wall, dangles from strings. The edge of the work has been laboriously designed, curled and pointed, supposedly to suggest harbors, bays, inlets, and aspects of landscape. Wood forms pressing through the taut skien of the surface are meant to suggest mounare meant to suggest moun

Landscape however has emotional effect; peoples' love for it is second only to the affection they have for the forms possible within the artist's chosen medium. As such, the work speaks not through the medium, but is reflective on itself. Closed off.

Without cohesive intent, the sculpture rambles like a bad novel where the writer is extheir pet dogs.

Painted a solid expanse of white and a full tone orange, the effect of Chris's work is not relative to landscape but to the cool science of geogra-phy and topology.

The critic suspects that the

Chris Jackh is a recent graduate of Uvic Visual Arts.
On graduating he left for Toronto which is now his home. He returns there after the closing of this two-man exhibition August 28. PREDICTABLE

Jan Vriesen exhibits with Chris Jackh. This artist is predictable, a superb technician; it is almost unnecessary to go to the gallery to know that his visual mechanics will be tight, colorful and slyly well-crafted.

There is a tendency for slick visuality to eclipse the meat of Jan's work. The best sometimes borders on the surreal and is a little frightening. Plants, anatomical meta-

Plants, anatomical meta-phors that the artist should take responsibility for, are not allowed to appear naked in public without being dressed in the fanciest of visual clothes. It was because of work like this that the Dadaists appeared in rags of tat-tered garbage and that Eng-land once enjoyed a school of GARBAGE

The artist's cut out Landscape, of sawn plywood and colorful paint is so much de-sign-oriented garbage. It is recognizably his, but instead of thinking, he has reached into a basket of favorite forms and plastered the wall.

In Drawing for a Sculpture, the artist makes a study for a construction. The two dimensional surface becomes a means to an end, a tool which helps the artist visualize a three-dimensional project.

Aiming beyond mere pencil and paper, into the world of concrete thought has one of the simplest and most beautiful results. An image has been created. It has a power by nature of the thinking im-plicit in it, without being rein-forced by hard edge strong color and self-conscious ath-letics for the viewer's eye.

FLUCTUATES

Jan seems to fluctuate from work close to the surrealist origins of his forms, this is the best to design distillations of these imaginative discoveries. A small drawing filled with soft mushrooms entitled again, Landscape, is the only work in the show which brings together the top and bottom of Jan's style. Design elements that belong salely to elements that belong solely to the world of paper are mixed with objects that could be surrealistic. The result is an infusion of the two extremes into each other.

Somewhere in this artist's things before the public and much skill to do it well. There is only the task of crystalliz-ing out, the imagination and strength that only occasional-ly rears its head. In the ter-minology of "Blues" music, of

"Save-Your-Hair Day"

Set For Mon. & Tues.

The Crown Gets

Wings to Match

CRANWELL, England (UPI) - Prince Charles received his Royal Air Force wings Friday and set out to join the Navy.

The 22-year-old heir to the throne stepped smartly to a dais at the RAF college of Cranwell to receive the medal that signified his qualification as an air force pilot.

In making the award, Air Marshall Sir Denis Spotswood said: "We have the honor and distinction of witnessing the graduation of the first heir to the throne to have completed a flying course at the college."

In one month's time Charles will join the Royal Navy following in the footsteps of his father, Prince Philip.

* * *

The prince completed the 18-month course in only four months because of his extensive flying experience. His past experience disqualified him from receiving any of the normal prizes that go with outstanding performances during the course.

course.

His instructors rated him an above average pilot and Sir Denis regretted Charles would not stay to join an air squad-

During the course Charles held the code name Golden Eagle and Sir Denis praised him for his "spirit, enthusiasm and undoubted aptitude."

As the ceremonies for Charles and 10 other graduates occurred, British Provost jets swept overhead, then doubted back to form the letter C.

At the beginning of the presentation, Prince Charles saluted his father, Marshal of the Royal Air Force, who had them the Prince in the royal plane to Cranwell.

After the ceremonies Prince Charles flew his father home.

FOR BALDING HEADS LIKE THESE, a "SAVE-YOUR-HAIR DAY has been announced. As long as you have some hair, you have an ex-cellent chance to grow thicker hair by new methods of home treatment

SCALP SPECIALIST HERE TO DEMONSTRATE NEW-HOME TREATMENT

New Joine treatment methods for preventing baldness will be demonstrated this Monday and Tuesday, August 23 and 24. This news was released here today by Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists.

In their announcement, they named trichologist Mr. I. Edgar to conduct the Victoria Clinic. Mr. Edgar will personally examine hair-worled men and women from 1.00 p.m. to 8.00 p.m. Monday and Tuesday at the hotel Sussex.

EXAMINE YOU FREE "We want to make it clear that you incur no obligation by seeing Mr. Edgar"

"Your only obligation is to yourself — to free your mind of worries about hair loss dandruff, itching, or other scaip disorders, by learning how to take—care of your hair. If your trouble is be-

WHO CAN BE HELPED? Will this new treatment, cure baldness? "No, We cannot help men who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But where your scalp still grows hair, we can at least save and improve what you have. The important thing is: Don't wait until it's to fate!

Best evidence of the success of Harrison treatments the phonomenal growth behind it. Harrison Trichold gists hold clinics in all majorities across Canada.

"Our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim to do. But to overcome the average man's initial skepticism is sometimes difficult. He's usually quite desperate and baldish—by the time he nerves nimself—to see a Harrison trichologist.

He's 'tried everything'. So he starts consoling himself with one of the old superstitions a bout hair: That haldness is hereditary; that men naturally lose hair as they get along in years; that nothing can be done to stop hair loss—and a lot of other notions that we know are not true today."

EXAMINATION

See Mr. Edgar in person-Learn how baldness can be avoided and hair growth en-couraged. The new Harrison method permits you to ac-nually save and improve your hair in the privacy of your own home.

Unfortunately, flea collar or tag wearers all too frequently develop reactions varying from mild skin irritation to ugly, deep, long-lasting skin leasions, plus other danger-ous reactions. Under some circumstances where the flea population can't be eliminated will usually control the prob-

The ideal solution is to provide a flea-free environment for your pet. You want to be sure that at least your quarters, and your pet's, are not breeding grounds for fleas. For the occasional animal who can tolerate none of the effective flea products on the skin, it may be necessary to engage in daily end to end combat with the hopping hoard.

Hitchhiking in Europe: A Little Spare Cash Helps

Ann Laughlin of the Mon-treal bureau of The Canadian Press has completed a two-week tour of five European countries to report first-linad on what young Canadians hitch-hiking through Europe this summer faced. In this story she tells of a growing problem — youths finding themselves stranded after a summer of fun.

Bennett Takes Hard Line On Medicare Cost Level

By DOUG MacRAE

Premier Bennett suggested Friday that B.C. doctors take a 10 per cent cut in their schedule of medicare fees and have their rates frozen "until inflation is licked."

The premier made the suggestion in a busy day of firing potshots at the province's doctors, who are negotiating through the B.C. Medical Association for a new schedule of fees.

The cut was proposed after Bennett said he believed the BCMA was seeking a rate increase of 20 per cent. This was denied today by BCMA executive director Dr. E. C. McCoy.

"We are not demanding anywhere near 20 per cent," McCoy said. "The associaton had simply pointed out to the government that doctors' rates had not been increased in three years, and that if they had gone up at the cost-of-living rate of 6.6 per cent per year the total would have been 20 per

* *

If the doctors weren't asking 20 per cent, Bennett replied, then why was the figure mentioned at all?

"My opinion is that the rates should be 10 per cent less this year, instead of an increase," Bennett said.

"You can't deal with price indices and cost of living fig-ures on top incomes like those of doctors. Twenty per cent on an income of $50,000 would be $10,000. How high is high?"

The premier's statements drew an angry response from Oak Bay MLA Dr. Scott Wallace, who belted the Social Credit party this week.

Wallace quit after Bennett announced two orders-in-coun-ell aimed at prodding the BCMA into "serious" fee negoti-ations.

One order empowered Health Minister Ralph Loffmark to dictate in which hospitals doctors may or may not practise. He said this was aimed at forcing doctors into doctor-short

The second order empowered Provincial Secretary Wesley Black to license private medical laboratories, with the stated objective of forcing doctors to use public hospital labs at a lower cost to medicare.

On Tuesday, however, Bennett appeared to refute Loff-mark's explanation of the reason for the order governing which hospitals doctors could practise in. The premier said the order was part of the fight to keep medicare costs down.

Bennett indicated the government would not enforce the Loftmark order if doctors would pledge co-operation in keeping their rates down.

It was the principle that the health minister could dictate on doctors' professional freedoms that led Wallace to quit, he

"I am even more distressed now to witness these rather

"I'm getting a little bitter. It is disappointing that when I am honestly trying to debate a point of principle, the premier can brand me as a representative of a special interest group interested only in money.

That sort of comment lowers the level of this debate to the typical political level of British Columbia. The premier is suggesting we sell our rights to practise in the hospital of our

Wallace said the premier is overlooking the fact that all costs involved in medicare have gone up. It is "unrealistic and unfair" to infer that the over-all rise in the cost of the program can be blamed solely on doctors' fees.

And Bennett's inference that the average B.C. doctor's income is $50,000 is "simply not true," Wallace said.

The province's 2,000 general practitioners probably average closer to $35,000 gross income, as does Wallace himself, who then pays one-third of that out for expenses.

The MLA noted that doctors had voluntarily agreed to not seek a rate increase last year, although they were entitled under their contract with the province to do so.

This concession was made in the face of rising overhead costs to the doctors themselves. Similarly, increases in the over-all cost of government medical care have been "inevitable, part of the world we live in." Wallace said. Continued on Page 2

ARREST BREAKS UP FARMERS' PROTEST

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) - The president of the National Farmers' Union was arrested by RCMP today as a group of Prince Edward Island farmers blocked a highway near Borden.

Roy Atkinson of Saskatoon was taken to the Prince County jail at Summerside in the latest development in a continuing protest by some Island farmers against government agriculture policies.

An RCMP spokesman said Atkinson was charged with conspiracy to intimidate.

The arrest came when a group of farmers moved their tractors on to a highway at Carleton Corner near Borden, seene of a major traffic-blocking manoeuvre by the NFU Friday which ended when police ordered farmers to remove their tractors or have their shoved off the road by buildozers.

Shortly after Atkinson was arrested, the farmers dispersed and traffic was moving freely once more.

From that viewpoint, says Aranas, the shoplifting of-fence might be achieving something of benefit, in that it provides an outlet, a satisfac-tion, for deep-rooted drives -acts of measurably greater harm to all concerned.

In any case, the cure for shoplifting does not lie in any practical sense of psychiatric

It's fine to talk about theft as being a "symbolic repre-sentation of what they really want," but digging out just what it is they want involves long and deep analysis. The approach is not feasible.

The destitution of these displaced Pakistanis is very real to the many relief organizations who are doggedly scouring the affluent parts of the world for food, drugs and plastic sheeting needed to build temporary shelter for the refugees.

These agencies know what a going on and what kind of help is needed. Their representatives are working in the camps and field hospitals, and it is their intimate knowledge of the critical situation that keeps them going in the frustrating hunt for relief funds. The apathy of most Canadians is confusing to Dr. Robert McClure, former moderator of the United Church, who came here as part of a cross-should be as concerned about him as we are about our out board or ski-doo."

He said the federal government had pledged $8 million in relief, but thought individual citizens should show a liftle more personal compassion.

McClure's plea to Canadians to "exercise the muscle of compassion" follows a personal tour of the sprawling kalyam refugee camp on the outskirts of Calcutta, where the control of thousands of East Pakistanis are forced to live with fifth, disease and death.

Heres How You Can Give To Pakistani Aid Fund

Tax-deductible donations in the Greater Victoria area may be sent to the local representative of the Save the Children Fund, vice-president, Mrs. W. W. McGill, 3441 Mayfair Dr.

Cheques should be made out to B.C. Save the Children Fund.

Other organizations involved in the Combined Appeal for Pakistan Rellef are the Canadian Cath-olic Organization for Development and Peace, Ca-nadian Council of Churches and member churches, Canadian Red Cross, Canadian UNICEF Committee, CARE of Canada, OXFAM of Canada, UN High Commission for Refugees and World Vision of Canada.
